THE ENERGETIC SIGNIFICANCE OF HALLOWEEN SELF-PERCEPTIONS

Greetings!

You are correct when you state that several cultures view Halloween as a time in which to communicate with, and honour, the dead. (Note: This had been mentioned by a group member before the meeting)

You are already aware that different cultures also do so at differing time periods during the year. However, this particular time period is one in which Universal frequencies open up the entire world to the spirit realm.

To explain this more clearly, let us first remind you of an earlier channeling in which we explained the potency of the pyramids. A pyramid, on its own, is like a battery pack. However, when it aligns with another compatible pyramidal structure on another planet in the Universe, a beam of energy is created between the two structures; one that 'charges' both pyramids.

This beam is engaged and disengaged very speedily, due to the rotation and revolution of both planetary bodies; but for a brief moment, the light charge is intense. And this charge is then stored by both pyramids.

What we have just described is the effect created by one pyramid aligning with another. Now imagine what actually happens when countless pyramids on earth, moment to moment, align with countless other pyramid-like structures on countless planets around the Universe.

Many of you have witnessed a laser-beam show. Multiply this a million-fold, and you will get an idea of what is energetically happening around you at all times...crisscrossing beams, colours, lights, frequencies, energy and music: all being created moment-to-moment.

The strongest ‘laser-light show’ takes place during this time period every year, and it extends over an approximate two-week period between October and November, spanning Halloween. This stimulates your psychic abilities, allowing a deeper connection with loved ones in spirit who, in any case, visit you all the year round. This process has been playfully depicted by people dressing up as ghosts and other spirit entities. It is certainly not a time period of ‘haunting’; it is a time period of deeper connection. Enjoy it.

If you have recently experienced the loss of a loved one, use this time period to open up your psychic abilities. Empower, love and bless the loved one who has passed over. Help him or her move into the light.

We also suggest that you use this time period in which to open your channels to a loved one who has passed over years ago. No matter how much this person has evolved, you will be able to enjoy a connection. Open to communication.

You may find that you receive messages, or you may just feel their love and presence. You may choose to clear up unresolved issues from the past or just express your love. Do it.

Take a moment, here and now, and think of a loved one (or more than one if you so desire). Call upon them. Feel their presence. Talk to them mentally. Express anything you wish. Or just sit quietly and bathe in their love. (Long pause)

And it is so, and it is so, and it is so.

Now that you are aware of the laser-light show, feel free to enjoy it for yourselves as well. Open to the energies and bathe in them. Allow them to balance, align and stimulate you.

Last week we spoke of the new, personal frequencies that you would be stepping into, post Diwali. The first aspect that you are addressing is perceptions of the self.

We suggest that you actually write down a very private description of the self, as if you were writing a character note of a fictional person about whom you are going to write a novel. Write this in the 3rd person: (Your name) followed by a physical description of her, her attributes, her strengths and weaknesses, the areas in which she excels and the areas in which she is lacking, etc. Anything that comes to mind. Do this dispassionately, and do not judge it as you are writing it.

This may take you more than one day. Take your time. When you feel it is more or less complete, then go back and study it in detail. Some of the attributes you will like; others will displease you. You might, for example, have written “She is a perennial failure in relationships” or “She is terrible at business and finance.”

Now start writing a new character study, keeping the points that you like, and amending those that make you uncomfortable. Be realistic. Let us say that you have written “She just doesn’t understand technology” and you would like to upgrade this. Do not say “She is a techno-genius”. That would be unrealistic. But you could write “She is now open to learning, understanding and enjoying technology”.

Why have we asked you to write this down? When you take the trouble to hand-write anything important about the self, you are drawing up an inviolable spiritual contract with the self. It must then manifest, over time. It’s a promise from you to YOU.

To reiterate: The first step is to write a character study of the self, in the third person, as you see yourself now. Then, after it is relatively complete, perhaps after a few weeks, study it. Step two is to review this and re-write it in a manner pleasing to the self. Step three, which opens out over time, is one in which you start living the new you.

Limited perceptions of the self are the biggest stumbling blocks you are currently facing. They have to be re-written to create the New You. The Diwali energies are the blank canvas, the blank page. One on which you create the new, upgraded you. But till you acknowledge and choose to amend these limited perceptions, you cannot do so. Otherwise you will just re-write what you already are. Why would you continue to write a life-story that includes pain, trauma and constriction? Create one of openness and growth.

Dear friends: most of you, if not all, have a singular guiding Master which you chose before taking incarnation. However, with the rise in vibrations of the human race, most are now working with combination Master frequencies at any given moment in time.

Open out and embrace these multiple frequencies. If you only focus on your primary Master, you are doing the self a disservice and you then deny the self the bounty of this flood of energies. This process does not make you, in any way, disrespectful to your Master. You are simply being offered a wider quotient of love.

DIWALI BLESSINGS from 5 energies: MEHER BABA, THE GANESH, ST. GERMAIN, THE MOTHER MARY AND THE ASHTAAR COMMAND.
