THE ENERGIES OF 12.12.2019

Greetings!

Yes; many are curious about the energies of 12.12. The entire planet, and all her inhabitants, have entered an energetic passage beginning today, and will be propelled through this vortex for an extended period of time.

It is often assumed that the energies will only last till the 21st of the month. That is not so. You will, individually, remain in this passageway for as long as is necessary for your individual growth and evolution. Time is not finite.

Imagine Earth to be a cannonball, shot out of a cannon, and hurtling through a passageway of time, space and dimension. That is what has now energetically happened. In this process, suddenly celestial rules don't exist the way they always have. Possibilities and probabilities are now infinite. This passageway suspends time, as you know it, and offers you the opportunity to recreate the self, moment to moment, in the most dramatic ways imaginable.

We suggest that you start, from now, visualizing the self in any way that you so desire. Recreate and upgrade your physical form, your health, your emotional quotient, your mental processes, your life-course, and so on. Give it the form, shape and dimension you so desire, so that it begins to manifest in the future.

You may find this hard to believe, but nonetheless, do so. A magnificent opportunity is being offered to you; don't waste it.

You have heard of the 'trials and tribulations' that earth will face during the coming year. That certainly exists, but we choose to speak of the energies of 12.12.19 from a Universal perspective today.

When you chose to incarnate on Earth, the core center of very first cell that you implanted in your mother's womb vibrated with the energy of gratitude: gratitude to the Universe for giving you the opportunity to create an incarnation that would offer you spectacular growth and evolution.

You may think that the core center of all cells should be love. It isn't. Love is a flow; one that bathes all the various layers of your cells at all times. But your core vibration is gratitude.

Each person's core of gratitude vibrates at differing frequencies. This is dependent on what you have achieved in other lifetimes and experiences. If your core vibration of gratitude was high to begin with, then your growth has soared.

If your core vibration of gratitude is of a lower frequency, then your growth has been slower but steady. This is why people evolve at differing rates when it comes to their emotional content, mental openness, willingness to self-search and so on.

Upto now, the frequency of your initial core vibration of gratitude has governed your rate of growth. This year's tunnel of 12.12 offers you the opportunity to upgrade this core vibration.

Just think of this. If you have been slow and sluggish in growth so far, now is the time to visualize this core vibration speeding up. By doing so repeatedly, with intent, you are actually looping back in time (as time is simultaneous, not linear) and changing the core vibration at your inception.

Doing this would change and upgrade your ill-health or mental confusion. If the core vibration has governed that you would grow and evolve through disastrous relationships, by changing your core you can ensure that you now grow through joyous ones instead. And so on.

Change your core vibration starting now. Work on it several times a day. This can, of course, be done in meditation; but it can, as easily, be done 'in action', while walking on the street or driving a car.

Simply visualize the initial core vibration in your mother's womb. Observe its frequency. Then visualize it increasing in frequency, vibrating faster and faster. You will have to do this repeatedly, as none of you are, as yet, Masters of Time.

Your strong intent, coupled with the energies of the tunnel of 12.12.19, will ensure that you loop back in time and change your beginnings, so that you change the current self.

(Smiling) Yes, this sounds like science fiction; the truth is sometimes stranger than fiction.

This does not mean that all the traumatic events that you have gone through in life with suddenly vanish, nor will you ‘forget’ them. But, by repeatedly upgrading your core vibration, you will find that your perception of these events will drastically change. You will be able to really acknowledge the benefit of all that has happened. Your quotient of gratitude will then increase.

Many of you have moved from the belief that ‘time is linear’ to ‘time is simultaneous’. We now ask you to imagine time to be a starburst: millions of shafts of light emanating outward from a core center in all directions.

All of these shafts are your frequencies, and depending on which one you focus upon, you are in a different timeline, dimension or lifetime of the self. The core center, in this case, is your initial vibration: your unique vibration when you first separated from the Source.

Since this is complicated, we shall go no further today. We simply ask you to start working with the initial core vibration that you implanted in your mother’s womb in this particular lifetime.

2020 is going to bring about a lot of changes on Planet Earth. These changes will lead to upgrades in the future. Planet Earth herself, and all her kingdoms, are going to experience these changes.

As far as the human race goes, there certainly will be drastic changes in the social, political, educational and business spheres. You have to learn to keep pace with these shifts. Embrace the change, rather than fight it.

Planet Earth herself is also changing and upgrading Her core vibration; the one She implanted in the womb of the Universe before coming into existence.

Expect astounding changes next year in the self and in all those around you: personality shifts, shifts in all your personal and non-personal relationships, shifts in your lifestyle, and shifts in the way you think, feel and behave.

You need to be open to new relationships, new business opportunities and courses of study. Recreate the self joyously and fearlessly.

We remind you, once again, that time is re-adjusting itself on earth and therefore in a state of flux. The organs in your body are changing shape, vibration and frequency. Your pulse rate will fluctuate from time. Your heart will beat at differing rates at differing times. The very composition of the blood is upgrading. Neurons in the brain are firing differently. Your brains will therefore function differently.

People will, in general, start to 'look different' during the course of the next year. This may include physical changes; but more often than not, you will simply be observing an energetic change in others and in the self. Embrace the change.

Teams of Universal beings are currently surrounding Planet Earth. Many of these magnificent beings are those with whom Earth and her inhabitants have never before interacted. They are all here to help, serve, guide and coordinate the new flow of energies.

This is necessary, as the kinds of energetic downloads you have now begun to receive are ones with which you are completely unfamiliar. You have never before experienced these, in any lifetime or dimension. They are 'brand new'. Even your Masters and Guides don't quite know how these are going to affect you. But they are here to help and serve you. Embrace the change.

You are, today, in the presence of THE ANCIENT ONES. We have existed since before time. Yet our energies are very current and up-to-date. Blessings.
