

15th November 2012

LIGHT OF 101 MASTER ENERGIES

Channelled by Sohrab

THE 2012 DIWALI ENERGIES

Trance Channelling begins

 Greetings!

Let us speak of the energies of the festival of Diwali, as they pertain to Planet Earth this year. As you well know, the energies of Diwali always deal with the illumination of body, mind and spirit; but each year they take a slightly different direction.

This year, the human collective consciousness has chosen to harness the energies of illumination for personal quests. Each and every individual worldwide will, at a higher level, be harnessing these energies this year.

Now, what is a quest? A quest is a single-minded mission, followed with complete direction and focus. Every human is formulating, for self, higher level quests. These may or may not filter down into the conscious mind, yet they will be followed in a focused and singular manner.

We offer you, as lightworkers, the opportunity to also formulate even more quests for self at a conscious level. Your conscious quest could cover any aspect that you wish to single-mindedly pursue. It could be to heal a troubled relationship, to shift around your body, to move from victimhood into power, or to turn around your business, to name but a few. You cannot stipulate a time period: the energies will continue to work till the mission is completed. This would, naturally, also depend on your speed and willingness to work through issues that would arise in conjunction with the quest.

Think well before you formulate your quest, and demand that self align with the Diwali energies to fulfil it: once you have initiated the quest, there is no going back.

Let us give you an example: let us suppose that a person desires to move from victimhood into power. Six months down the line, to achieve this, it may then be appropriate for her husband to leave her, so that she can stand alone and touch her power. Now, if this happens, she cannot 'take back' the quest. Once initiated, it will flow towards its natural conclusion. However, you must trust that no matter what happens, it is perfect for self and for the quest.

You said that, once started, there was 'no going back': who will not permit this?

 You. Your own higher Self. You are now being taught, by self, how to take complete and total responsibility for your incarnated aspect. With the level of power that you now hold comes added responsibility. If, using the earlier example, you consciously choose to move from victimhood to power, you are also aligning with all concurrent, simultaneous aspects of self in different incarnations, and all are then choosing to do so. You are therefore making the choice for hundreds of thousands of aspects of self. This is a huge responsibility.

But surely my own higher self would have already chosen that?

 Yes, it is unlikely that you will feel impelled to choose a quest that is not in alignment with your higher self. However, your incarnated aspect still has a choice. If you do choose an aspect not in accordance with your higher self, you are in for a bumpy ride. Looking at this from a wider perspective, everything is perfection; but everything need not be smooth. This choice is offered to you at the conscious level as well, as you are ready for it.

Aren't we often at odds with our higher self?

 You are learning to align your incarnated aspect with your higher self. Take an earthly example to better understand this. A young student leaves home, to study abroad, for the first time. He is now without the direct influence of parents, home and old friends. He is figuratively 'starting afresh'.

He now has to make choices for self: to study hard, or to goof off. To focus on his future or to take drugs. Choices are constantly thrown at him, and he has to make them, moment to moment, without the official influence of the home structure. Each choice offers a series of consequences, which he now has to face. It is up to him to make easy or difficult choices. And for some people, the difficult choices are the more appropriate learning tools.

I am confused: you spoke of concurrent, simultaneous aspects of self: surely all of them have different choices?

 Yes and no. By saying this, we are not evading your question, but you need to understand the duality of your existence. All your concurrent aspects, (past, present and future) are inter-connected. They do live out differing experiences, but their goal is the same: to grow, evolve, expand, and eventually to merge with All that is.

There is what is called 'energetic empathy' between all your aspects: the murderer and the victim, the sinner and the saint, the teacher and the pupil, and so on. Though these appear to be so very different from one another, in choice, action and growth patterns; they are actually completely bonded to one another.

Therefore, if you choose in this incarnation to work on moving from victimhood into power, all your concurrent selves energetically desire the same. How each chooses to do so will differ, and each choice will lead an aspect of self towards self-empowerment, but through a multiplicity of colourful experiences.

How long do we have to choose our quests, and how exactly do we initiate the process?

 It would be ideal to make your quests (and yes, you can choose more than one to work on) before the end of this year. You most certainly can do so during 2013, but the energies will have lessened by then.

The procedure is simple: you simply state very firmly, mentally or verbally, that you desire to align self with the current Diwali energies to follow your quest of....

Now let us explain to you how various Master energies have offered themselves to aid you in this process. You may name a few Masters.

The Zarathustra energies?

 Let us first remind you that all Masters offer their energy to anyone who chooses to align with them. They are most certainly not communal!

The Zarathustra energies, in conjunction with the Diwali energies, will offer people new opportunities, ones they have not seen or encountered before, for personal growth and development. Some of these experiences may appear painful, others joyous; but they will all be perfect for the quest.

An example: a person who calls upon these energies to help her touch her power in a disempowered relationship, will find circumstances arising in it that appear explosive. She will discover sides to her partner, and within self, that she had not previously acknowledged.

She may even find a temporary increase in her victimhood: it may arise to urge her to acknowledge it and take a step to shift into a new level of self-empowerment.

All energies have 'two sides' to them: in this case, as her victimhood temporarily increases, so will her desire and ability to touch her power and shift out of it.

Remember, friends, you never create that which is unnecessary for self; and you never created that which you cannot 'handle'. Therefore, even when things look their darkest, there is always self-created help at hand, if you only acknowledge it and choose to take it.

St. Germain?

 The Germain energies, in conjunction with the Diwali energies, will urge you to touch, acknowledge and embrace every single aspect of self; particularly those which you have shunned in the past. If you work with his energies, you will learn to appreciate your complete and total magnificence.

All your aspects, pleasing and displeasing, will be magnified, in a deliberately provocative attempt to urge you to embrace yourself without discrimination.

If you choose to use the Germain's energies, you will find opportunities to truly touch your vibrancy, opulence and creativity.

Maha Avatar Babaji?

 He will help you explore your occult self. Please note our words: we are not speaking of your personality, or your emotional self, but your occult self. That which has worked with the occult, in different ways, over lifetimes.

An aspect of self, for example, may concurrently be exploring healing through herbology, and another aspect of self may be exploring the tantric arts. These, and many others, may be re-activated within the self: you will feel motivated to go deep within self and explore the secret, hidden you. That which is mysterious, perhaps dangerous, powerful, seductive and magnificent. And it will be up to you to choose which aspects to re-activate within your current self.

The Maha Avatar Babaji gives you his word that those who choose to connect with his energies during this period will discover aspects of self they did not dream existed: it will be a deeply spiritual, exciting and perhaps intimidating trip.

Lord Mahavir ?

 The Mahavir energies offer you the opportunity to touch balance and alignment. Let us speak of these along with the Buddhic energies. The Mahavir energies will help you touch balance and alignment and the Buddhic energies, this year, will help you touch conscious knowledge that you have, up to now, resisted. We are not speaking of higher wisdom, but of conscious knowledge.

If you combine both these energies with the Diwali energies, you will find that you soon have a new level of inner balance and alignment, which readies you to joyously face that which you have previously resisted in life, and in self.

The Behram Yazad?

 The Behram Yazad, another aspect of Archangel Michael, will help you, this year, cut through the debris that clouds your wisdom and judgment. You will be able to cut through the self-created fog that surrounds your relationships, behaviour, thoughts, patterns and belief structures.

On earth, when you don't want to face a situation, or avoid an issue, you put up walls of distraction. These will start crumbling, and you will be brought face to face with who you are, what you are, and what you are evading. If you choose to use these energies, escape will be very difficult. You will get a good, hard, clear look at YOU.

Shri Aurobindo?

 A beautiful choice this year, as the Shri Aurobindo energies will help you touch a spectrum of universal energies that you have never before accessed. Most of you in this room are already comfortable with universal energies and entities; and yet there are many that you still resist at a sub-conscious level.

The Shri Aurobindo energies will help you receive an appropriate infusion of these energies. If you choose to ally with his energies, there is no 'down side' at all; it will be the equivalent of a magnificent Universal massage. However, if you are scared of rapid personal expansion, if you want to remain 'small', then don't choose these.

Meher Baba?

 He will help you touch your deepest sorrows. A seeming paradox to the Meher Baba energies with which you are familiar, and yet not. These energies will help you unearth and assimilate deep wounds and trauma, not only from childhood, but also from different lifetimes.

You may, for example, be urged to remember ancient battles, or an experience of sati. However, by assimilating these, he helps you move into a new space of personal freedom, laughter and joy. He will also help you face your current fears, and laugh in the face of adversity.

A note here, dear friends. You can choose to work with a combination of as many Master energies as you desire. Your choice. Even if you do not consciously know which attributes they offer you this Diwali, allow your gut to guide you. You may even instruct self to work with a combination of 'the most appropriate energies for self'. Trust that you have the correct recipe!

Also please know that we are speaking of the Master combination with the Diwali energies. If you desire to work with them in the normal manner, you may certainly do so. Simply instruct them to continue to work with you, without combining with the Diwali energies.

Shiva?

 The Shiv, in conjunction with the Diwali energies, will set off, within self, energetic explosions of a magnitude you have never before experienced. This could be likened to 'intensive inner spring-cleaning'. You will sift through all your inner possessions, throw out what you don't need any more; making space for new, vibrant energies, thoughts, patterns, and structures.

A recluse, using these energies, will find opportunities to socialize and interact with others. A person who has perennially resisted business and finance will find himself presented with numerous opportunities to re-evaluate and take charge of his wealth.

Use these energies with responsibility: they will work at lightning speed.

Sai Baba?

 The Sai's energies, during this period, will help you re-acquaint yourselves with your Universal aspects. Remember, he is a Universal master, with millions of societies under his purview. He will work as a liaison officer, helping different Universal societies get to know one another. He will help in the exchange of energies.

If you choose to work with these energies, be aware that all your issues of bigotry and separation will be brought up. You will be urged to face that which you have shunned, be it a community, or an aspect of life. You will experience union through diversity. To be used with caution.

Hanuman ?

 The Hanuman energies will function as Universal wormholes: they will link up differing Universal societies and regions of deep space, facilitating and energetic exchange.

If you choose to work with these energies, you will find new brain pathways opening up, offering you the opportunity to view your attitudes, beliefs and personal situations from a new and more expanded perspective. You will feel urged to look at personal relationships anew. These are very freeing energies, and will help you explore the new you.

Laxmi?

 The Laxmi energies always deal with wealth and abundance; that will not change. This year, if you combine them with the Diwali energies, you will find yourselves being urged to examine your limitations, giving self the opportunity to transmute them into abundance.

If, for example, you habitually think of yourself as stupid, you will create situations that bring this to the surface, so that you are urged to re-evaluate your own perception of your intellect, and perhaps find unacknowledged areas in which you are clever and incisive.

Since these energies will work relentlessly to urge you in a different direction, choose them wisely. They will further intensify your lack of abundance, if you are not willing to shift and use them to your benefit.

Mother Mary?

 She will, this year, help you touch love in areas where you have previously only perceived lack. You will be urged, gently but very firmly, to review these aspects. And let us assure you that these energies can be very firm when need be.

It may interest you to know that you entire country, as a collective, has already chosen to work with the Mother Mary energies, in conjunction with the Diwali energies. This will naturally also be your choice, as it will be the choice of any visitor to your country during this period.

You do not need to call upon her: she is already with and within you. She will also help you touch your balanced feminine side.

Saraswati?

 We will define her energies in one word: fluidity. She will help you flow in blocked areas.

Christ?

 It may interest you to know that we cannot speak of the Christ energy without also speaking of the Judas energy. The two work in complete unison: at a higher level, they are in full merger. Together, they help you embrace and better understand your duality.

Krishna and Christ are working in a similar manner: The Krishna energies will help you embrace your inner music, which includes your duality and your creativity.

Dear friends, we must end here. Use your intuition to select the appropriate combination for self: your own beingness will guide you.

YOU ARE EMBRACED IN THE LOVE AND LIGHT OF 101 MASTER ENERGIES.

(Note: Sant Tukaram ended the meeting with a short message, which was lost in taping)
