RANDOMNESS VS. PERFECTION

THE CREATION OF DNA

THE HUMAN DIVINE SPARK

THE ENERGIES OF CHILDREN BETWEEN THE AGES OF 5 AND 12

During the usual pre-channeling spiritual discussion, a newcomer presented her personal views. Her perspective was that all events in life are random. She was of the opinion that there was no 'higher power', only 'us'; and that death signified 'ashes-to-ashes, dust-to-dust'. She also stated that all human beings are bound by their genetics and pre-disposition. She also challenged the concept of free-will choices and the possibility of making personality or behavioural shifts.

Many group members presented their opposing points of view; and a healthy, yet vociferous discussion took place.

(Sohrab begins channeling)

The points just discussed merit further explanation. You spoke of randomness vs. perfection. Nothing in the Universe is actually 'random'; but with a limited, 3rd dimensional perspective, it may appear to be so. It is like trying to look at a room through a keyhole, and not making sense of it; whereas when the door is open, the entire vista is revealed to you.

This experience of 'randomness' is extremely necessary for those on Planet Earth. This indecipherability peaks your curiosity, urging you to push your boundaries and 'make sense of things'. Through this process, you grow and evolve.

Don't you do this with your children? As part of their learning skills, you may offer them a jigsaw puzzle, with all the pieces separated. Their growth comes from learning how to piece it together, until the 'big picture' appears. This training is necessary for them to learn how understand the concepts of shape, colour, formation, harmony, rhythm and sequence.

Your entire quest of 'making sense' of the Universe is what makes you grow and evolve. If everything was easily explainable, you would just get lazy and there would be no point to your earthly experience.

Another point raised was whether or not a Universal Power even exists; and if so, do you create your own DNA, or does it come from the Universe. The answer is: it's a joint-venture.

In this 3rd dimensional reality, you live in duality. You are therefore both individuated and the Universe. You are co-creators of everything that IS. You do get the necessary 'push' from the flow of Universal energies to keep re-creating the self. This process, in turn, re-creates the Creator. It is a never-ending cycle of constant growth and evolution; one in which the creator and the created merge so fully that they are ONE.

We remind you of a Universal Law that state that "everything in the Universe wants to grow and evolve; nothing wishes to remain the same, or to regress." Therefore, your DNA follows suit. It wants to expand, evolve and upgrade itself. This, of course, applies to the DNA of every kingdom of planet Earth, and to that of every other being in the entire Universe.

So, of course you are co-creators of the Universe. As your cells and your DNA upgrade, they emit increased vibrations and energetic pheromones that urge all Universal DNA to do the same. So while you are on planet Earth, you are urging all other kingdoms to speedily upgrade; and they are doing exactly the same to you. A massive, Universe-wide chain-reaction is therefore constantly in motion; one that perpetuates creation, re-creation and re-re-creation.

Today, we wish to briefly introduce you to a new aspect that is now in the Human cellular structure; one which we will call your divine spark. Please do not confuse this with “the God within me”. We are speaking of your personal divine spark.

Has it always existed? Of course! But there is a re-activation and an upgrade of this aspect within the self, during 2017. This aspect is made up of the configuration of Universal energies that you, personally, have chosen to interact with. No two humans will choose to interact with the same set of frequencies; each person will create that which is perfect for the self.

This is going to urge you to push your boundaries. All of you are now going to experience very tangible changes in the human body. In some cases, it may manifest in the form of an increase or decrease of weight or body shape. Others may find their features changing slightly, or a new glow emerging from the body.

Internally, you may experience a vibration like pins-and-needles, but in a pleasant manner. Some may feel like there is an internal massage taking place. Your cells are actually beginning to hum and sing. We urge you to consciously tune into this. If you learn to recognize and acknowledge them with the conscious mind, you will simply accelerate the process.

This new vibration will make you feel so good that you will be provoked to choose to use and distribute these energies throughout the body, at will. When you get accustomed to recognizing and using these energies, you will be able to instantly direct them into any area that is in discomfort or disease, with a simple mental command. By doing this, you will be able to ease personal suffering, balance out your body and cure yourselves of diseases on the spot. Imagine the magnitude of this! At a later date, you will be able to forestall any disease before it manifests in the physical structure.

These vibrations are also going to affect the brain, pituitary and pineal glands. As these areas begin to internalize these vibrations, your thought patterns and modes of behaviour are likely to upgrade very speedily. You will find yourselves less and less confused about how to deal with complex situations. You will find a new and decisive self emerging.

You will be able to see others for what they are, listen to their words and understand them so much better than you did in the past. While interacting with others, you will intuitively know what to say and how to behave. Do not expect an overnight change; the personal divine spark is going to take a year, if not more, to activate fully within the self.

At the end of 2017, there will, broadly speaking, be two kinds of people: those who have consciously or intuitively opened to and aligned with these new frequencies; and those who have strongly resisted this upgrade.

This will lead to a further energetic split in the human race. One group will be in flow and harmony with the self and the Universe; working with a sense of certainty, purpose and awareness. The other group will move further into a downward spiral of their own creation.

The latter group is, in no way, being sidelined or discriminated against by the Universe: this is a free-will choice. Here, no Master or guide will step in and aid you; no matter the magnificent level of connection you may have with them. This has to be a free-will choice: you have to choose to generate these energies and then choose to align with them...or not.

Please welcome this upgrade. This is not some divine gift being bestowed upon you. It is a gift you are choosing to bestow upon the self, by acknowledging and utilizing your own power and magnificence to create it. It is a reflection of your personal view of your own divinity. If you truly believe that you are the creator, and that you are divine, you will soar with these frequencies. If you do not, you will remain limited and restricted.

Questions?

I have been experiencing these pins-and-needles for a while now; but I find the sensation very uncomfortable. I tried to heal it, but it didn't work.

Don't try to 'heal' the sensations. Those like you, who are energetically sensitive, may feel this more strongly than others. Simply command the cells in that area to balance, align and grow with these frequencies.

I sense that this is one energy with which we can't work with children. I feel we can guide our children, but we can't activate it on their behalf. It's their call to do so. Is this correct?

Yes, you cannot do this on anyone else's behalf.

Wouldn't a child, or a person, be frightened if they experience these pins and needles?

Don't be literal. We used this as a descriptive one; in general the sensation will be a pleasing one, rather like an inner massage.

I have already started feeling it. It's like feeling 'alive' inside. It's beautiful.

(Smiling) Yes. Here is another image that may please you more: champagne bubbles arising energetically from within the body.

We assure you that even those who have not heard of this concept will begin to experience these sensations during the course of this year, provided they are committed to personal growth and evolution.

Please be aware that those who are extremely resistant to these new energies, as well as those who do not wish to interact with these energies at all, may choose to exit the planet. Now, do not assume that everyone who exits this year is doing so for this reason; but many will.

We will speak more of this at a future date. But before we end, let us speak for a few moments of this generation that is sitting in the room today (Pointing to P's twin children, aged 9, who had asked to attend the meeting.) We refer to children who are approximately between the ages of 5 and 12. These are forerunners of unbelievable change on planet Earth.

These youngsters will know their own mind. They cannot be forced to do things you want them to do: they can be guided, urged and nurtured; but they will not respond to coercion.

They will be neither rebels nor conformists, as most of you were. They will simply do what they want to do, and not do what they don't want to do. And since they will neither defy authority nor accede to it, most of them will not have an 'authority figure issue'. For the few that will have one, it will be to a very mild degree.

They are also already pulsating with a very strong energetic light and vibration. This light is already beginning to affect drastic changes in social and educational structures. This generation is truly going to turn the educational system on its head.

This group will give rise to many scientists, inventors, technological geniuses and social mavericks. Many will not show any interest in a certain subject or area of study; yet when they hit the late teens or early twenties, they will suddenly develop an unusual inclination towards it. Be prepared for that as well.

A child, for example, who has always been extremely artistic may suddenly shine in the area of politics. Another who has been a failure at mathematics may suddenly develop a passion and an aptitude for physics. And so on.

Many of this generation will have unusual and erratic food intolerances: it is essential that you, as parents and guardians of these children, tune in to their bodily needs on an individual basis. You now cannot follow the usual guidelines of what foods are 'considered healthy for the growing child'.

Many also have a strong link with their higher souls: in some cases, a conscious link; and in other cases, an unconscious one. But a strong link, nonetheless. Listen to their 'words of wisdom': you have a lot to learn from them. And these words of guidance and wisdom may come at you at the most unexpected of times. Learn to listen to them. Many of them have specifically chosen to incarnate to be your teachers.

These wonderful souls have an innate and tenacious connection with abstract energies. Do not expect them to follow your lead and visit churches, temples or mosques; or to appear 'respectful' of your chosen Masters. Though they may follow your example when they are young, most of them will not feel the strong connection that you do with traditional Master energies.

Most of them, instead, will respond to the abstract energy of technology, or music, or mathematics, and so on. Please encourage this connection.

BLESSINGS, JOY, LOVE, LIGHT AND THE EMBRACE OF THE ST. GERMAIN.
